A Proud Heritage and a Bright Future

Indianapolis Medical Society (IMS) dates back to 1848. While records are scarce, we are lucky enough to have in our archives some very significant parts of our history. Many highly respected Indianapolis physicians have been prominent members and leaders of IMS. I think that there is value in a brief review of just a few of those leaders, although keep in mind this is just the tip of the iceberg. Their accomplishments speak to us today and push us toward future accomplishments and the advancement of our profession.

Dr. Richard French Stone was IMS President in 1890. He served in the Civil War as an ambulance attendant and later went to medical school and graduated from Penn. A native of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, he came to Indiana after training and was Professor of Materia Medica and Therapeutics in the Central College of Physicians and Surgeons in Indianapolis and was on the staff of City Hospital (first iteration of what is now Eskenazi Hospital).* Dr. Stone published two books, the latter being a compilation of 1200 biographies of US physicians that spanned 749 pages (I'm hoping to keep this article somewhat shorter).

Dr. William Henry Wishard was the father of William N. Wishard and was a Civil War surgeon. One of his many contributions was to advocate for and oversee the discharge of disabled soldiers on a national level. He was one of 28 doctors that formed the Indiana State Medical Society (now ISMA) in 1849; one year after IMS was formed. In 1868, he presented the first Indiana State Medical Society resolution, which was to support the building of a state hospital for the indigent sick people of Indiana. Dr. W.H. Wishard was president of that body from 1888-1889. He served as IMS President as well later in his career at the age of 88 (It's never too late). He had such longevity, living until age 98, that he stated he personally knew the first 64 presidents of IMS.

Dr. William N. Wishard, Sr. was the son of William H. Wishard and President of IMS in 1894. He graduated from both Indiana Medical College and Miami Medical College. After beginning his career in Southport he moved to Indianapolis, and fostered the building of a new City Hospital in 1883. He also started the Flower Mission Training School for Nurses, the "second or third" nursing school established west of the Allegheny Mountains. He did most of his work in urology and did the first prostatectomy in Indiana. He had a lot to do with prompting the establishment of the IU School of Medicine. He was on the faculty for 49 years, finally retiring in 1936 after making innumerable contributions to the development of the profession of medicine in Indianapolis.

The younger Dr. Wishard, providing us some history no doubt gleaned in part from his family heritage, noted that back in the 1870's IMS met every Tuesday night (now there's an idea...). Dr. Wishard said that "Medical Society membership has been increasingly recognized as an essential to professional standing as well as a necessary means of keeping in touch of the medical progress." IMS, through its Publicity Committee, played a role in helping local newspapers and other media in Indianapolis publish articles on medicine that were accurate and scientific. IMS, per Dr. Wishard, provided "authoritative interpretation."

There are certainly many more stories involving other well-known Indianapolis physicians, some with campus buildings and streets named after them, easily recognizable by IU graduates. But this will have to do for now. With an eye on the past, I am calling on IMS members to stand up and be counted for advancing our profession and to be creative leaders in medicine in what is most certainly a challenging time with economic and societal changes along with rapid scientific advancements as well as difficult medicolegal considerations. Continue to stand up for access to care for our patients. And not just "care" as a commodity that can be provided by just anyone — rather care like only physicians of quality can provide. This is how IMS will continue to thrive and move into the future — by doing what we do best. Our members will continue to be known as innovators and courageous leaders and face the challenges undaunted.

By the way, Central (later State) College combined with the Purdue Medical Department and the Bloomington Medical Department of Indiana University in 1908. IU School of Medicine, although previously established in 1903, absorbed the other schools.*

Adolescent Depression and Suicidality Indiana in the Top 10!

Up to 8.3% of adolescents suffer from depression and up to 1 in 4 adolescents will have a major depressive episode while in high school. Indiana ranked #1 in teens considering suicide and #2 in those that actually attempt suicide in the 2015 Kids Count in Indiana data book. From Center for Disease Control (CDC) data, suicide is the 3rd leading cause of death among 10 to 24 year olds, causing 4,500 adolescent deaths/year. Let's change this statistic by recognizing and treating depression among our Hoosier teens.

Signs of depression may take longer to be detected often because the moodiness and irritability may be blamed on usual teenage behavior, but detection of the problem is necessary to provide adequate treatment. Signs include:

- social isolation,
- running away from home,
- missing school or have poor school performance.
- reckless and harmful behavior, including self-harm and substance abuse.
- extreme irritability, anger, or hostility

Although all teens are at risk to develop depression, there are some major risk factors which include attention disorders, learning disabilities, chronic medical conditions, recent stressful event or trauma, risk for bullying or social exclusion, such as obesity, or those who identify as LGBTQ, a family history of depression, and a family history of suicide is of particular concern. Risk factors for suicide in depressed adolescents include recent exposure to another's suicidal behavior or access to lethal methods.

The PHQ-2 screening tool has been validated for use in teenagers:

- 1) Over the past two weeks, how often have you been bothered by feeling down, depressed, or hopeless?
- 2) Over the past 2 weeks, how often have you been bothered by little interest or pleasure in doing things

Score the PHQ-2 answers from 0-3 with 0 = not at all, 1 = several days, 2 = more than half of the days, and 3= nearly all the days. If the total score is 3 or greater, it is 96% sensitive in detecting those teenagers who would have a positive PHQ-9 screening survey.

First line therapy is generally psychotherapy, with or without medication depending on the severity of depression. An SSRI is typically chosen when a medication is required and fluoxetine or sertraline are the most commonly chosen first line agents.

While in 2004, a black box warning was placed on SSRIs for children and adolescents, warning patients about increased risk of suicidal ideation or behavior and expanded in 2007 to all individuals under the age of 25, experts have become concerned that suicides were more likely to be precipitated by NOT treating the depression appropriately with medicines known to be effective. More recent studies show that SSRI prescriptions actually reduce the number of teen suicides.

Depression screening may lead to the identification of suicidal or homicidal ideation or other forms of self-harm. This often places doctors in a precarious position of figuring out what to do next. The Indianapolis area offers many options for walk-in or phone evaluations for psychiatric emergencies including crisis prevention hotlines at Midtown Mental Health and the Julian Center that cater toward depression in addition to offering services for substance abuse and domestic violence.

In-patient and walk-in services are also offered at the many local hospital systems including the Behavioral Care Center at Methodist Hospital, St. Vincent's Stress Center and Community Hospital North Behavioral Health Pavilion. The Options Behavioral Health System and Valle Vista Health System also take evaluations, direct admissions and 24-hour, 7-day a week services. Most services at these centers are covered through Medicaid and most private insurance plans.

National crisis lines are also available and include the National Suicide Prevention Hotline, 1-800-273-TALK, and the National Hopeline Network, 1-800-SUICIDE. The Trevor Project caters to LGBTQ youth and has a great website and hotline at 1-866-4-U-TREVOR. In the event of emergencies, notify your local emergency department.

Many more services can be found via www.211.org, which offer a variety of services based on location. A fund of information can be obtained here for mental health and counseling services in your area.

As physicians, we are on the front line in this challenge to change our state ranking and recognize and treat depression in our youth while preventing suicides among this most vulnerable population.

Why choose a brain surgeon for your back and neck pain?

...Because... your spine is more than just bones. The bones support your back and neck, and protect the nervous tissue called the spinal cord. The spinal cord connects to all your nerves and it connects to your brain.

When you have back and neck pain, you need someone with advanced medical training who understands how the brain functions together with your spine and nerves—you need a neurosurgeon.

Neurosurgeons work closely with pain management physicians to bring you the most options for pain relief.

To treat your back and neck pain, choose someone who will understand your brain and your spine. Ask your doctor if a neurosurgeon at Goodman Campbell Brain and Spine is right for you. Find out more at: www.goodmancampbell.com

Steven R. Counsell, MD, founding director of Indiana University Geriatrics became the 62nd president of the American Geriatrics Society at the start of the organization's 2015 AGS Annual Scientific Meeting, May 15-17 in National Harbor, Maryland.

At the Indiana University School of Medicine, Dr. Counsell is the Mary Elizabeth Mitchell Professor of Geriatrics, founding director of IU Geriatrics and a center scientist with the Indiana University Center for Aging Research. IU Geriatrics is one of the largest academic programs in the country, with 33 faculty including 22 board certified geriatricians.

Dr. Counsell's contributions to American Geriatrics Society work in the fields of health professional education and elder care public policy have placed him at the forefront of the AGS's mission to ensure high-quality, patient-centered care for all. For this reason, the Society recognized Dr. Counsell in 2007 with its prestigious Dennis W. Jahnigen Memorial Award, which celebrates a geriatrics leader who has made significant contributions to the progress of geriatrics education in health professions schools.

A 27-year member of the American Geriatrics Society, Dr. Counsell will serve as chair of the AGS board of directors following his year-long tenure as president.

Orthopedic surgeon, Robert A. Malinzak, MD, has been accepted into the European Hip Society (EHP), a prestigious, nonprofit scientific association based in Innsbruck, Austria.

Dr. Malinzak's induction will be formally announced next September at the 12th Congress of EHP in Munich, Germany. The organization has more than 500 members representing 30 nations. It also publishes Hip International, a peer-reviewed academic journal focused on advancements in hip surgery, traumatology of the hip, prosthetic surgery, biomechanics and basic science topics relating to the hip.

A member of Franciscan Physician Network Joint Replacement Surgeons, Dr. Malinzak practices at the internationally recognized Center for Hip & Knee Surgery at Franciscan St. Francis Health-Mooresville. He is a board-certified orthopedic surgeon and has led several clinical committees during his tenure with the hospital.

Dr. Malinzak is a Fellow in the American Academy of Orthopaedic Surgeons and has been widely published in professional medical journals. He holds editorial leadership roles with Current Orthopaedic Practice and Journal of Arthroplasty.

Anthony W. Mimms, MD, is one the staff of a new spine triage clinic recently opened at Franciscan St. Francis Health with the goal of quickly assessing and beginning treatment for patients with acute neck and back pain. The clinic is a combined effort of Rehab Services and the Franciscan Physician Network Spine, Rehabilitation and Neurosurgical Specialists. It is part of an evolving comprehensive Neuroscience Center.

Stephen W. Perkins, MD, Meridian Plastic Surgeons, recently participated in the American Academy of Facial Plastic Surgeons' Advances in Rhinoplasty 2015 Course in Chicago. He was the featured speaker on the following topics: "The Severely Twisted Nose: Breaking it Down and Putting it Together" and "The Special Challenges of Endonasal Rhinoplasty."

Dr. Perkins was the Moderator for a panel of international experts discussing varying techniques in modifying tip shape and position during rhinoplasty. He was a member for two panels that discussed these topics: "Bony-Cartilaginous Anatomy of the Nasal Pyramid;" "Analysis: Avoiding Pitfalls by Identifying Variant Anatomy" and "Battle of the Masters: Controversies in Rhinoplasty." He also conducted three video presentations.

Theresa M. Rohr-Kirchgraber, MD, was awarded a Fellowship in the American Medical Women's Association.

The American Medical Women's Association Fellowship Program serves to recognize distinguished members of AMWA who have accomplished outstanding achievements in science, medicine or academia. The first class of fellows was inducted at AMWA's Centennial Gala on April 25, 2015.

Rick C. Sasso, MD, served as a faculty member for international Spine Trauma Summit at the Seattle Science Foundation, May 15-16, 2015, Seattle, Washington. Dr. Sasso gave the lead-off talk on "Occipito-Cervical trauma and odontoid fractures." He also taught the hands-on cadaver laboratory session on "anterior odontoid screw fixation" and "anterior cervical reconstruction."

In Memoriam

John "Jack" Arthur Smith, MD, 1937 - 2015

John Arthur Smith, MD, known to most as Jack, passed away on March 21, 2015, surrounded by his family. Dr. Smith was born on August 25, 1937 in Milford, Ohio. He grew up in Cincinnati, Ohio and graduated from Walnut Hills High School in 1955.

Dr. Smith graduated with honors from the University of Cincinnati College of Medicine in 1964 and became the first in the history of the University of Cincinnati's medical school to graduate Alpha Omega Alpha, the national honor society of medicine and science, founded in 1902. He was the first African American nationally to receive this honor and remained involved with the society until his death.

He completed his rotating internship at the University of Iowa, then returned to the University of Cincinnati General Hospital to complete his residency in Radiology. In 1968, Jack was drafted and sent to serve at the US Air Force Hospital in Ankara, Turkey as chief of radiology for the Middle East, the only radiology unit between Vietnam and Wiesbaden, Germany during the Vietnam War. After completing his military tour, Dr. Smith took a fellowship in pediatrics at the Kinderspital in Basel, Switzerland.

Upon his return to the United States, Dr. Smith and his family moved to Lynbrook, Long Island while starting his academic career at Downstate Medical Hospital in Brooklyn, New York. In 1972, he and his family transferred to Indianapolis, where he served as pediatric radiologist at Riley Children's Hospital, Wishard and the VA and professor of radiology at Indiana University Medical School until his retirement. He became assistant professor in 1972, associate professor in 1976 and professor in 1983. In 1996, he became director of pediatric radiology at Riley. During his tenure at Riley/IU, Dr. Smith completed two sabbaticals: at Boston Children's Hospital in 1979 and in 1991 at the University Hospital of the West Indies in Kingston, Jamaica. Dr. Smith was very active in service and leadership. He held many memberships in prominent radiological societies. He also held several significant leadership roles at the university, including assistant to the dean, director of minority affairs, member of the Institutional Review Board, chairman search committee and many positions at Riley. He was interested in community service geared towards minorities and children, serving on the Sickle Cell Anemia Foundation Board, participating in the Indiana Black Expo, serving as president of the National Junior Tennis League of Indianapolis and serving on the board of directors of the Indianapolis Boys Club. He lived, traveled and lectured all over the world.

Paul F. Muller, MD, 1915 - 2015

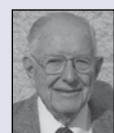

Paul F. Muller, MD, died peacefully on May 23, 2015 at age 100. He will be greatly missed. As a physician he was compassionate, generous, and concerned for his patients' welfare. To his family and friends, he quietly set an example of high moral values, a strong work ethic and a commitment to community service. His passing leaves a deep hole in the hearts of his family and friends who loved him dearly.

Dr. Muller was born in 1915 in Lawrenceburg, Indiana, where he attended Lawrenceburg High School. He went on to study at Notre Dame University before finishing medical school at St. Louis University in May of 1941.

With World War II looming, he enlisted in the Army Air Corps as a flight surgeon in the summer of 1941. During his four years in the Army Air Corps, he rose to the rank of Lieutenant Colonel and pioneered the air evacuation of the wounded in France and Germany, saving the lives of many American soldiers.

After his military service, Dr. Muller completed a residency in obstetrics and gynecology at Cornell University in New York where he was Chief Resident. He started his private practice in Indianapolis in 1951, becoming the first Catholic obstetrician in the city and delivering hundreds of babies. Always curious and inventive, he performed the first intrauterine blood transfusion in Indiana, a lifesaving procedure for unborn babies. Dr. Muller became the Head of OB/GYN at St. Vincent Hospital and served as Medical Director until his retirement.

Dr. Paul Muller was active in many community organizations. He served as President of the Sierra Club of Indianapolis from 1960-1961. He was president of the Notre Dame Club of Indianapolis and was awarded "Man of the Year" in 1964. He also provided medical services at St. Elizabeth's Home and was a member of St. Luke Catholic Church.

Jack Ellis Slichenmyer, MD, 1928 - 2015

Jack Ellis Slichenmyer, MD, 86, of Zionsville, passed away due to heart disease on June 6, 2015 in St. Vincent Hospice. Born July 29, 1928 in West Salem, Illinois, Dr. Slichenmyer attended public schools in Bloomington Illinois.

A veteran, he served in the U.S. Army during 1944-46, including a tour of duty in Japan. Upon completion of his Army tour he resumed his education, graduating with a BS from the University of Illinois and his Medical Degree from the Northwestern University School of Medicine in 1956.

Dr. Slichenmyer completed his internship and surgical residency training with specialization in otolaryngology at the Indiana University Medical Center from 1956 through 1960.

He subsequently served as a medical officer in the U.S. Air Force from 1960 to 1962. He then returned to Indianapolis, where he practiced otolaryngology until his retirement in 1990.

Indianapolis, SBR, 3.5BA • Offered at $525,000

Tons of value in this brick and stone European style home. Built in the era of solid hardwood doors, Lebanon Oak floors, leaded windows, crown moldings, and plaster walls. With two patios and a wood deck, the outdoor living spaces are a wonderful way to enjoy a spring evening or entertain friends and family.

F.C. TUCKER COMPANY, INC.

Congratulations, Cathy!

Cathy Tyree, Medical Society Exchange Operator

Cathy Tyree started working at the Indianapolis Medical Society Exchange when she was 21 years old. Cathy has been one of the premier operators in the greater Indianapolis area, serving the physicians, nurses, office staffs and patients with great care and professionalism.

Cathy and her husband of 46 years, Mike, have two grown sons, Mike and Tom, and three grandchildren, Cassandra, Madison and Emily. Her sister-in-law, Dollie, lives with Cathy and Mike and their two dogs, Mackey and Gizmo.

The Medical Society Exchange, the Indianapolis Medical Society, and Cathy's co-workers hope she has another 40 years to give to us. She insists she has enjoyed all 40 years and according to Cathy, "I really can't say I have a favorite doctor because I have quite a few of them."

Congratulations, Cathy Tyree, for 40 years as an expert and loyal Medical Society Exchange Operator!

On June 9th, 2015, Cathy celebrated her 40th year with her MSE co-workers and IMS staff.

Here's to 40 more!
